DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-3,5-16, drawn to monitoring and switching signals for audio satellite broadcasts, classified in class 370, subclass 464.
 - II. Claims 17-20, drawn to error handling, classified in class 714, subclass 776.
 - III. Claim 21-27, drawn to analyzing audio signals from reproduce tv signals, classified in class 386, subclass 54.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions pertain to monitoring and switching signals for audio satellite broadcasts (group I) and packet error handling (group 2). Group I focuses on the handling of communication protocols for transmission. Group II focuses solely on error detection of information.

Inventions I and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions pertain to monitoring and switching signals for satellite broadcasts (group I) and analyzing the audio portion of broadcasted television signals after receiving the audio information (group III). Group I focuses on the handling of communication protocols for transmission whereas Group III focuses on audio processing after the information has been extracted from the transmission.

Inventions II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions pertain to packet error handling (group II) and analyzing the audio portion of broadcasted television signals after receiving the audio information (group III). Group II focuses solely on error detection of information whereas Group III focuses on audio processing after the information has been extracted from the transmission.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. In the interest of compact prosecution, examiner has chosen the claims of Group I above to be addressed in this office action

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-3,5-14 are allowable over the prior art of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

7. Claims 15,16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hiroi (65649241).

As per claim 15, Hiroi (65649241) teaches an uplink transmitting AC-3 audio with video transmissions in a satellite broadcast system (col. 4 lines 35-50; col. 5 lines 60-65) comprising:

“an encoder.....digital transport packets” as data process handling the input signal (fig. 1), and mixing the signal to audio and video signals (fig. 1, subblock 150 -- stream combiner)

"a multiplexer.....guide data" as multiplexing the information, including guide information (fig. 1, subblock 145; fig 5a – category lists; and figure 6)

As per claim 16, Hiroi (65649241) teaches the output transport stream to be one of a variety of methods (col. 5 line 45 – col. 6 line 10).

Response to Arguments
